King Sends His Sympathy

Expressions of Grief Pour
In on Widow; Theaters,
Horse Show to Continue

DUBLIN, Aug. 13 (By The Associated Press).—A great crowd followed the cortege which today conveyed the body of Arthur Griffith, President of the Dail Eireann, to the City Hall, where it will lie in state under a guard of Free State troops. The funeral is expected to take place next Wednesday.

The death of Griffith has had a stunning effect upon the majority of the people of Dublin, who recognized in him the greatest force behind the Anglo-Irish treaty. Prayers were said in all the Catholic churches to-day for the repose of the soul of Mr. Griffith and there were many signs of mourning throughout the city.

Numerous expressions of sympathy have been received by Mrs. Griffith, among them messages from King George, the Irish political leaders and the Irish bishops. After tendering sympathy, the message of King George added:

"In spite of his untimely death, I pray that Ireland may soon receive the peace for which he labored."

The Irish government has issued a statement expressing its firm determination to carry on the life work of Mr. Griffith to "the achievement which he has so nearly realized."

Contrary to previous statements, the theaters will not close, the opening of the Horse Show will not be delayed and the Leopardstown race meeting will begin to-morrow.

William Cosgrove, Minister of Local Government, who is acting President of the Dail Eireann, said to-day that it was the distinct wish of the government that nothing be allowed to disturb the funeral arrangements which have been planned. The body of Mr. Griffith will lie in state in the City Hall on Wednesday.

Devastation Stretches as Far as Queenstown; Rebels Used
Oil to Blaze Their Retreat

DUBLIN, Aug. 13.—A correspondent described Cork as the nearest point where the oil was used to start a fire. The fire spread to the harbor and the city. The fire spread to the harbor and the city. The fire spread to the harbor and the city.

At Queenstown, where the first signs of devastation caused by the retreating rebels, only the blackened shell of the Admiralty House, while the Royal Naval Hospital has been completely burned. A row of houses by the water's edge was destroyed by shrapnel and most of the windows broken. A fire of two up Passage West, leading to the city, was seen in the protruding sections of vessels the rebels had used to block the entrance to Cork Harbor.

After indications of the intention to make a stand, the residents of Cork were surprised when they saw the rebels bolting on the approach of the national troops. The advance of the Free Staters was a signal for sudden activity at the headquarters of Eireann. The rebels were seen in the streets in all directions ordering the residents of certain localities to quit their homes. A few minutes later barracks throughout the city and police headquarters were being ablaze. So hastily was the work of destruction begun that a number of irregulars themselves were caught in burning buildings and rescued with difficulty.

Belgians Seize Romanoff Jewel Worth Millions

ARION, Belgium, Aug. 13 (By The Associated Press).—What is believed to be a priceless jewel, formerly the property of the Romanoffs of Russia, has been seized by the customs authorities here. It is a splendid emerald, an inch and three-quarters long and an inch wide, and holds a pendant of twenty large diamonds, the largest of which is said to be of the purest quality.

The jewel was on its way from Berlin to a firm of diamond cutters in Antwerp, and its declared value was 180,000 francs. Customs experts assert that the jewel is valued at several million francs.

Republican Group Out to Break Ward Rule in Westchester

Independents Turn to Judge
J. B. Southard, of Putnam, for Supreme Court, Opposing Candidate Boss Backs

Independent Republicans of Westchester County turned yesterday to County Judge J. Bennett Southard, of Putnam County, to run on their ticket for Supreme Court justice in the 9th District.

The independents turned to Judge Southard, a former surrogate, for election to the Supreme Court because of his long political experience and wide acquaintance throughout the five counties of the district.

The anti-Ward forces point out that Westchester County now has four of the seven justices in the district and Putnam County, where Southard lives, has none. Southard is popular in the northern part of Westchester County, which is only a few miles from his home in Putnam.

The independents have entered Southard's name in the contest against George Taylor, of Mount Vernon, who is on the Ward ticket. By splitting the vote, the anti-Ward forces believe that the four other counties, with the help of the Westchester insurgents, will name a candidate from outside of the county.

Southard's name was put upon the tentative anti-Ward slate in Westchester for the Republican primaries and conventions because former Disunionist Attorney Parsons Davis, of Yonkers, has declined to campaign for the nomination.

By naming Judge Southard the independents in Westchester hope to break the hold of the judicial convention in the 9th District to the four other counties, which are Orange, Putnam, Rockland and Dutchess.

Knocked Down By Policeman, Woman Charges

Mrs. Francis Walsh Asserts

Untrue, Says Patrolman
Declares He Was Attacked
at Coney After Insisting
Man Cease Profanity

Alleging that she was struck in the face and knocked down yesterday by Patrolman Thomas McGibney, Mrs. Francis Walsh, of 635 Park Place, Brooklyn, will appear in Coney Island court to-day to prefer charges against him.

The alleged attack on Mrs. Walsh took place during an altercation on the beach at Coney Island. McGibney was not in uniform at the time.

According to the story Mrs. Walsh told Captain Hughes at the Coney Island police station, McGibney was a member of a bathing party that included Mrs. Walsh and her husband and John Madigan, 118 Putnam Avenue, Brooklyn, a chauffeur. Later, he left and returned with another man and two women, Mrs. Walsh said. They seated themselves a few yards away from the Walsh party.

Objected to Language
McGibney, it is said, objected to language used by Walsh. "You'll have to cut out that profanity," he is reported to have told Walsh. "There are ladies present."

Mrs. Walsh said she jumped to her feet and retorted: "There is nothing the matter with the language used by my husband. It didn't hurt your feelings when you were with us a short time ago."

She said that McGibney then hit her in the face, injuring her so severely that a physician had to be called. Her husband and Madigan, Mrs. Walsh said, then proceeded to give McGibney a thrashing, not knowing that he was a policeman. The latter ran to the bathroom, put on his uniform and arrested Walsh and Madigan.

McGibney's Arrest Refused
Mrs. Walsh accompanied them to the Coney Island station and asked that McGibney be put under arrest. She was told, however, to make her complaint in Coney Island court.

Patrolman McGibney said that he was attacked when he protested to Walsh against the profane language he was using. He said that one of the men threw a whisky bottle at him. He denied Mrs. Walsh's charges.

Walsh and Madigan were freed on bail, and will be tried on a charge of disorderly conduct in Coney Island court to-morrow.

Revolt Quashed In Nicaragua; 2 Cities Seized

Double Assault on Chinandega Repulsed; Many Casualties; Rebels in Complete Rout, Say Cables

Tijerino Is Wounded
Ex-Governor, Brother of Consul Here, Is Shot;
New Troops in Control

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 12 (By The Associated Press).—Chinandega, a city of 15,000 population, about ten miles from Corinto, a Pacific seaport, was attacked twice last night by members of the lower element of the Liberal party in Nicaragua, who were reinforced by refugees from Honduras and Salvador. Two revolutionists were killed and eight refugees wounded by the government forces. Martial law has been declared for sixty days.

Among those wounded was Antonio Tijerino, former governor of the Department of Chinandega and brother of the present Nicaraguan Consul at New York.

Communications were cut during the engagement and later restored. The rebels were completely scattered and the government now controls the situation. The village of El Viejo, behind Chinandega, is in the hands of the revolutionists.

Later on the same night a similar attack was made on Leon, the largest city of Nicaragua.

Governor Gustavo Arguello of the Department of Chinandega was wounded and two policemen were killed during the attack. The government forces were wounded. The government scattered the rebels and order now prevails.

One thousand volunteers and well-equipped troops were sent from Managua and Granada to reinforce the garrisons at Leon and Chinandega, and the United States collector of customs advises that there is no more trouble.

At Corinto the United States Minister declared that the government has complete control of the situation.

At Managua everything is quiet. Dr. Salvador Castillero, former Nicaraguan Minister at Washington, with two followers, has been deported because of an alleged plot against the government. The public and press are said to have approved the order for deportation.

The rebels were reported to have evacuated El Viejo and to have scattered into the surrounding country. The government believes that it has the outbreak completely subdued.

Leaders of the revolution are believed to have been banished last April and to have returned recently under a general amnesty.

Committee Chairman Declares
Women Are Quick to Grasp
Effect of Tariff Bill

After a ten-day trip up state, Herbert Pell, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, on his return here last night, declared that the entire state administration would be Democratic next year. He said that his travels in Republican strongholds convinced him that not only would the Democrats elect a Governor, but would elect a majority in both branches of the Legislature. He also expected that the state would return a Democratic majority to Congress.

"The feeling of victory seems to be contagious," said Mr. Pell. "The women have been quick to grasp the effect of the impending tariff bill on the pocketbook, and there is as much sentiment against the state administration as there is against the Federal administration. In upstate counties where it formerly was necessary to draft men for the places on the Democratic ticket there are now several candidates for every office. That's the best indication of the way our prospects are regarded above the Harlem River."

Mr. Pell characterized Governor Miller's record as reactionary, and said his claims to economy had long been exploded.

Skipper and Passengers on Crippled Adriatic

At the upper left—Captain Charles David, whose calm attitude while the fire raged in the hold, reassured his passengers. Mrs. Rudolph Fremmel, center, wife of the composer, presented Captain David and his crew with a testimonial appreciative of their bravery. At the right—Former Governor Martin Glynn who, on behalf of the passengers, presented $6,161 to be given to the relatives of the seamen who lost their lives as a result of the explosion.

flash, came the terrible rumble and reverberation off to sea of the explosion. I got up as quickly as possible and threw on my clothes and went out on the deck forward. Just outside the door to the deck lay the huddled body of a man, who afterward proved to be Redmond, a fireman. When I went the few feet forward in order to get below the bridge I found smoke pouring from the hatch just forward of the bridge.

I found Al Herman, the comedian, working in pajamas to help the wounded away, as well as George S. McLeish, a theatrical man, and Father G. T. Synott, of Rockville, Conn.

It was several minutes before there was much of a crowd on deck, and then at no time did it exceed fifty persons. As the explosion went off toward the starboard side those whose rooms were on the port side hardly heard at all.

"Captain David, who was in his room at the time of the blast, came out quickly, and his first words were, 'Is the ship all right?' When he was informed that it was intact he sent out a reserve bunker. This had just been opened from the adjoining bunker hold with the object of working out the coal.

The explosion was severe, and some flames ascended the No. 3 hatchway, which was stripped of hatch beams and hatches by the force of the explosion. Fire hose was rigged and what small flames there were were quickly extinguished. The ship proceeded on her way at full speed at 3:55 a. m. after a detailed examination of her hull and structure had been made.

But when the grizzled skipper, veteran of many years at sea, posted on the ship's bulletin board his acknowledgment of the testimonial given him by the passengers he took occasion to call attention to the part played by what he characterized as "the working of a gracious and merciful Providence" in the results of the disaster, and at the same time complimented his officers and crew on their handling of a dangerous situation.

Spontaneous Combustion Blamed
That the origin of the blast was spontaneous combustion in the Welsh coal, which was taken on at Liverpool and stowed in the hold instead of in the bunkers as usual, in order to provide a supply sufficient to carry the vessel back to the other side because of the coal strike here, was said by those on board to be strongly indicated by the statements of several coal passers.

Among the passengers were several from the Cunard liner Carmania, one of whom was said to be a brother of Donnelly, and another a son of McGinness.

Turkish General Arrested as Rome Express Train Assassin

ROME, Aug. 13 (By The Associated Press).—Nachmed Wechib, described as a Turkish army corps commander, has been arrested at Albano, an hour from Rome, accused of being representative of a Turkish secret society with headquarters in Berlin which planned the murder of a prominent Turk on an express train running from Rome to Prague in November of last year. The plan miscarried, however, for the wrong man was killed.

When the train was near Florence a man who was asleep in one of the compartments awoke to find another passenger trying to chloroform him. A fight followed in which the awakened passenger was stabbed and shot dead. The assailant then jumped from the train, but broke his leg and was arrested with another passenger believed to have been his accomplice.

Hylan Expected To Name Hearst At Convention

Mayor to Marshal Floor
Forces for the Editor at Syracuse, Manager of the Campaign Asserts Here

Conners to Win, He Says
Departing for Buffalo to Fight for Delegates, He
Predicts a 3 to 1 Victory

Mayor Hylan either will nominate William Randolph Hearst for Governor at the Democratic convention in Syracuse next month or at least will second the nomination of the editor-politician, it was intimated by William J. Conners yesterday.

Mr. Conners, who was packing up preparatory to departing on the midnight train for Buffalo, where he expects to arrive to-day, to begin his campaign against William H. Fitzpatrick, the Democratic leader of Erie County, said that he had no more doubt of what was going to happen in Erie County on primary day than he had of what would transpire at the Democratic State Convention in Syracuse on September 28.

Claims 3 to 1 Victory
"I shall defeat Fitzpatrick and his followers at the primaries by a vote of three to one," said Mr. Conners. "There will be nothing left of the anti-Hearst sentiment up there when the Committee of One Hundred gets through with their work. This committee, which consists of the leading business men of Buffalo, are out to capture the primaries for Hearst and they are going to succeed."

"The indorsement by the Erie County Democratic Committee of Al Smith means nothing. Fitzpatrick has only a skeleton organization and we shall take that away from him on September 19."

"And mark you," continued Mr. Conners, "you will find that Hearst will have real support from New York City when the convention rolls around. Not only has he Brooklyn solid, but Maurice Connolly, Borough President of Queens, is friendly to him. And you know that Mayor Hylan is for him and you can count on Mayor Hylan leading in the fight for Hearst's nomination on the floor of the convention."

"Will Mayor Hylan nominate Mr. Hearst?" Mr. Conners was asked. "Intimates Hylan's Part."

Mr. Conners evaded a direct reply to this, but intimated that the Mayor would either make the speech nominating Mr. Hearst, or else make the principal seconding speech.

"You cannot make it too strong that Mayor Hylan will not be a candidate and that Hearst is a candidate for gubernatorial nomination and is going to get it," he added.

Mr. Conners said that he would remain in Buffalo only a week—just long enough to help get things started for the Hearst-Conners drive against the regular Democratic organization of Erie County.

Garvey Assailed at Meeting

Friends of Negro Freedom Wish
Him in Jamaica—Not L. I.

The Friends of Negro Freedom rallied to Shuffie Inn, at 121st Street and Seventh Avenue, yesterday afternoon to express their thoroughly uncompromising opinions of Marcus Garvey, provisional president of Africa and the Universal Negro Improvement Society. The oratory became so violent that the audience sat spellbound far into the evening, long after the last Garvey sympathizer had been carried shrieking and protesting by the police.

The sense of the meeting appeared to be that expressed by Philip Randall, co-editor of "The Messenger," who declared that Garvey was a Jewish negro and would have done his race a favor if he had remained there after starting his Back-to-Africa movement.

When the train was near Florence a man who was asleep in one of the compartments awoke to find another passenger trying to chloroform him. A fight followed in which the awakened passenger was stabbed and shot dead. The assailant then jumped from the train, but broke his leg and was arrested with another passenger believed to have been his accomplice.
